

NOTED ATTRACTION THEATRE TONIGHT

Jefferson Brothers in "The Rivals," Richard Brinsley Sheridan's Famous Comedy.

A woman of taste and refinement after witnessing a performance of "The Rivals" as presented by Joseph and William W. Jefferson was overheard to say: "This has been a profitable evening," and then she asked half resentfully, "Why don't we have more of them?"

Her remark, it is believed, voiced the sentiments of nearly every person in the large audience that had just witnessed Richard Brinsley Sheridan's comedy with every evidence of delighted enjoyment. The language of the play may seem to us antiquated in expression and certain of the characters may impress us as old fashioned, but the wit, because it is genuine, is keen, and the humor of the situations, by reason of the skilful ease with which they are created, has lost none of its power to amuse and gladden.

Not only the eye is gratified by witnessing one of those "old fashioned comedies—but the mind, too, is roused and entertained and the auditor departs feeling that he has been not only diverted and amused but refreshed and invigorated. Such an evening is, in truth, profitable, for the recreation that is one of the chief ends of theatre-going has been obtained and the mental faculties have not been left unused, or, what is more damaging, been dulled by inanity and worse. Why we do not have more of them is a text requiring too far-reaching treatment to receive attention here even if it were desirable. Managers, players and public are each in part to blame for the infrequency of such evenings of profit, but it is doubtful if the chief portion of such blame can with justice be laid to the door of the public.

If the theatre-going public of this city desire to spend a "profitable evening" they should not fail to see "The Rivals" when it is presented by Joseph and William Jefferson at the Astoria Theatre tonight.

"FLAMING ARROW."

Red Flash the famous Indian runner, who carried Custer's last message, is one of the most interesting of a group of famous red men, who formed the attacking party on the fort, in "The Flaming Arrow," the romantic drama by Lincoln J. Carter which comes to the Astoria Theatre next Sunday.

Red Flash, an old man now, will be seen with this attraction. He was once, and indeed for a full decade, the fastest of all Indian runners, it is said that a sprint of 100 miles a day as bearer of important messages between forces of the regular army comes to the Astoria Theatre, play-goers and music lovers have in store a rare feast of comedy and song. The book is by David Edwin, who has several farce successes to his credit, the music and lyrics are by the well-known song writer, George Fletcher. This mirthful musical farce offers light entertainment of a breezy and refined character, and it has been filling theatres to the overflow for the past two seasons in the principal cities in the United States and Canada.

A Jeweler's Experience

C. R. Klager, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed.
